Rotary Observes Columbus Day

Mr. Conway Makes a Hit as an Orator and Thinker and Substitutes Song Leader in a Great Success as a Soloist.

Visitors from Baltimore, Newburgh and Kingston attended the Rotary Club luncheon at the Governor Clinton on Wednesday. There was a brief address by Frank Messenger on Rotary Classification, after which the speaker of the day, J. Edward Conway, a member of the Ulster County Bar, was introduced by Arthur C. Connelly.

Mr. Conway proceeded to surprise and please his audience with an eloquent and thoughtful address on "Columbus the Man," bringing out the many traits in the character of the great discoverer. Fearless, Columbus not only faced the unknown but sailed with a crew made up of convicts. He had persisted in his plans in the face of a world steeped in superstition and carried out his project only by facing and overcoming difficulties and dangers. On landing he displayed another side of his character by forbidding the swindling of the natives by taking valuable things from them in exchange for worthless junk. Columbus was not only courageous, but he was an upright man devoted to the service of his fellow men. His work made possible the founding and growth of a country where kings are without power and manhood wears the crown, where ballots, not bullets are the power and men may reap exactly that which they have sown.

In the absence of the regular song leader the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley officiated in that capacity and proved that as a song leader he is a great and much appreciated soloist.

Florence Crittenton Homes

Charles Nelson Crittenton was an American philanthropist, born in Adams, Jefferson county, N. Y. He went into the drug business in New York city in 1891, but after 1892, when his five-year old daughter Florence died, he devoted his time and wealth to the establishment of Florence Crittenton homes for homeless and unfortunate girls and their infant children. In 1895 the National Florence Crittenton mission was incorporated to carry on this work. Of these mission homes more than 70 were organized in Mr. Crittenton's lifetime in all the larger cities of the United States and in Mexico, Tokyo, Shanghai, the City of Mexico, etc.

"Stabat Mater"

The "Stabat Mater" is a medieval poem of uncertain authorship, generally ascribed either to Jacopone or to Pope Innocent III. It came into popular use in the Thirteenth century, although not at that time with any musical setting. Because of the beauty of the poem, it became a great favorite with composers, and hence a number of musical settings have been furnished for it, the earliest being that of Josquin des Pres, which appeared in 1519. Other compositions are those of Pergolesi, Haydn, Stefani, Clara, Astorga, Winter, Halmondi, Dvorak, Verdi, Ernest Walker, and Sir C. V. Stanford.—Literary Digest.

One Bridge in 2,000 Miles

In China there is only one bridge spanning the mighty Yangtze river, which has a course of more than 2,000 miles. This bridge is at Tsaili. It is a suspension bridge with two pairs of six chains clinging to the boards with a railing alongside. It is in fairly good repair. There was once another bridge at Chaotung, but because of raids from the north whereby Chinese were carried off into slavery the Chinese themselves broke down the bridge, leaving only the one at Tsaili.

Argentina Takes Up

Apartment-House Life

Buenos Aires—Apartment-house life is gaining rapidly in popularity among the Argentines. One of the chief attractions is the central heating system, almost unknown in Buenos Aires a few years ago. Argentines claim the winters here have become increasingly severe in recent years, and that this explains why so many detached houses, without any heating facilities, are being deserted for steam-heated apartments.

One newspaper has begun a campaign in favor of heating the railway stations, street cars, subways and schools, pointing out that "every year it is becoming colder, to the great discomfort of the public."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE TRUTH

THE most powerful thing in the world is Truth.

A lie, while it seems to have power, is the most useless and ineffective thing conceivable.

For many centuries the world believed that the sun revolved around the earth.

That was not the truth. And all the centuries of believing a lie did not vary the course of our globe a hair's breadth.

It is probable that we are still believing many lies because we do not know the truth.

In medicine, in theology, in physics, in a score of the realms of investigation, our knowledge is so incomplete that we wander about in search of the truth, believing meantime a lie or only a half truth.

Practically all our troubles come from not knowing the truth.

Christ, whose wisdom was as great as His goodness, said, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Free from what? Free from the results of believing an untruth, for once we know the truth no one can make us believe its opposite.

Because of the value of the truth every man, woman and child should make the greatest effort to acquire it—should strive for it with indomitable energy and unending struggle.

The invention of movable types and the development of the printing press has done more to make the truth available and spread its knowledge than was done in all the centuries that preceded them.

It may be that you, if you apply yourself to this great mass of information, may be the one to set the whole right on something about which it is now wholly mistaken.

When Harvey discovered the truth that the blood circulated through the arteries and veins he upset all the notions of the medical world, which had hitherto thought it necessary to bleed patients in both arms to keep the balance of blood even.

Columbus wrecked a whole world of geographies when he set sail from Spain to find out the truth about the lands to the West.

More recently Einstein rattled the theories of the scientific world by proving the truth that a ray of light, thought to be the one straight thing in a crooked world, may be bent by the force of attraction.

Seek the truth in everything. Dig for it. Struggle for it.

It is the only kind of knowledge worth possessing.

It is the one thing that never loses its value.

It is the same yesterday and tomorrow.

It is the essence of immortality.

Inference

"It's a powerful good thing, Shack-putter, that old man Rumpus turned up when he did," said a resident of Petunia. "The bandits had held up the bank and were getting away with the money when the old fellow arrived—they say he was drunk on moonshine hickory and wilder than a wildcat and began shooting the robbers as fast as he could let drive. When they were killed or wounded some of our best citizens came, and—"

"Good thing?—the decoy?" interrupted Constable Sam T. Shuckpooter. "He upset with his damned butt!" in as sweet a job of shouting as I was ever about to do. As soon as I heard what was coming off I turned myself heavily, came on the run and picked up a lot of the best clean I'd ever seen. But what was the use of that?—he hadn't left anybody to detect!"—Kansas City Star.

Buyers of Light Small Cars will do Well to Ponder these Facts

Essex was built to meet the demand for a small car of enduring and brilliant performance. It was never intended to dominate a price field.

Consequently its design and construction are different from the usual practice in cars selling at or near its price.

And so, also, is its performance. You see this on every hand, in the nimble, powerful way it speeds over the open road or threads through congested traffic. You see it in the endorsement of owners and the lasting character of its performance.

Essex quality is not confined to those details which please the eye. It extends to parts that can never be realized except through long severe service.

Look well to these important details when you choose a car. Be sure it is built to last, built to give long service at small cost. Ride in an Essex "6". Drive one. Note the ease of its operation and that no car regardless of size or cost rides easier.

Courts Will Decree Fashion

Chicago, Oct. 14 (AP).—The question of what school girls may or may not wear to classes, involving knicker-bloomers and short skirts, has caused so much controversy in three mid-western towns that the courts have been called upon to pinch the or dame fashion.

In Port Fulton, Ind., a mother has gone to court because her nine year old daughter is not permitted to attend school wearing knicker-bloomers.

Then an almost directly opposite case comes from Grand Island, Neb., where the daughter of a preacher has obtained a ruling from the state attorney-general that she is not compelled to wear bloomers in gymnasium.

Legal action also appears imminent in Genoa, Neb., where the school board has ruled that all girls, from the sixth grade up must wear skirts long enough to cover their knees, after high school girls had complained that the assembly room was chilly. One girl, demurred, broke the rule, and, backed by relatives is awaiting the next move of the school rulers.

Denies Payrolls Were Padded

C. W. Austin, Superintendent of State Grain Elevators, Accused Mills of Making False Statement in Charging Payrolls Were Padded.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP).—Orden L. Mills, Republican candidate for governor, was accused today by C. W. Austin, superintendent of New York state grain elevators, of making "absolutely false" statement in charging that the elevator payrolls were "padded."

The accusation was embodied in a letter despatched from here today by Mr. Austin to Mr. Mills, who reached the city this morning. The elevator superintendent arrived on the same train with the Republican candidate, and at once went into conference with Governor Smith, who authorized the sending of the communication.

"If you persist in these statements," Mr. Austin told Governor Smith's opponent, "the district attorney of Kings county should have either or both of us before the grand jury."

"As superintendent," he said, "I am responsible in the first instance for all payrolls of the state grain elevators. Your statement that these payrolls were padded is absolutely false, and you should not seek election by the sacrifice of your own political party, appointed to the position of superintendent by Governor Miller."

The allegations of "padding," Mr. Austin added, "if true, would constitute charges against me of a criminal nature."

Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, state superintendent of public works, also attended the conference today, and declared his approval of Mr. Austin's reply to the Republican candidate's charges.

HAS CONFIDENCE IN NEW KINGSTON THEATRE

Casualty Company Offers to Guarantee Theatre Bonds.

Mr. Berry, President of Berry & Company, reported today that he has been advised through insurance brokers that the Metropolitan Casualty Company, one of the largest casualty companies in the world has offered to guarantee the payment of principal and interest of the Kingston Theatre and Office Building First Mortgage 7% Gold Bonds that his firm is offering.

Mr. Berry stated, however, that he is not going to have the bonds guaranteed as this would necessitate reducing the interest on the bonds from 7% to 6 1/2%, and he feels that the purchasers of the bonds might better have the difference in interest rate.

He also stated that he believed that a bond that could be guaranteed did not need a guarantee and as three quarters of the issue have already been sold, it would not be fair to change the status of the bond at this late date.

Big Victory for Chemical Troops

Washington, Oct. 14 (AP).—A battle between the United States Army at Jeffersonville, Ind., and the "enemy" in the shape of moths and rats has resulted in complete victory for the chemical warfare troops, the war department has been advised.

The engagement was staged as an experiment to demonstrate that gases produced by the chemical warfare service have unknown peace time value. The depot warehouse selected for the test was overrun with moths and rodents who were ravaging the thousands of dollars worth of blankets, cloth and felt mats, sheepskins and leather supplies stored there.

Its comfort is combined with pleasing lines and design which are a delight to the eye as well as the feet.

Wearing Cantilevers is beneficial, too, as the flexible Cantilever shank allows the foot muscles to exercise freely, thus becoming strong and healthy.

For the utmost comfort, we recommend Cantilever oxfords, either plain or fancy. Lacing such shoes draws the leather shank snugly under the arch of the foot, affording comfortable support.

There are also stylish pumps with Cantilever comfort features.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 14, 1926.

Hitherto the lorgnette has been popularly associated only with the more or less haughty lady, but Washington despatches state that the useful instrument is to be furnished every army aviator to assist him in reading maps.

"Deep River" is hailed as the first opera that is genuinely American in every particular. If it is also of the highest grade as a musical composition, undoubtedly something new has been accomplished. The scene of New Orleans in 1835 is romantic and full of charm but hardly what would be called typically American.

Truly epoch-making was Cobham's 28,000-mile seaplane flight to Australia and back in thirteen days and eight hours, flying time. The French have the records in altitude and non-stop flying, but Cobham's feat is of more substantial value, particularly from the commercial point of view.

In order to end the risk of fire in motion-picture houses, the French authorities have ruled that after January 1, 1928, no inflammable films whatever may be shown in France. This news is the more interesting and important because of its indication that non-inflammable films are a demonstrated possibility.

The town council of Barnet, England, which Samuel Pepys, the famous diarist, often visited, has decided to give his name the pronunciation of "Peeps". But you never can tell what Englishmen desire of a short cut will do with an uncommon proper name. There's Cholmondeley, for example, which they insist on pronouncing "Chumley".

CONFLICT OF TESTIMONY.

It seems that social workers disagreed as well as doctors, and quite as sharply. A symposium on prohibition to which they contribute in Better Times makes this much quite clear while leaving the question itself in doubt. Although representatives of the Y. M. C. A. and the Salvation Army affirm the "immense good" accomplished by prohibition in tenement districts, a probation officer and a neighborhood worker testify that it has done "nothing but harm." When dry writers point to savings bank deposits and wet writers to the great increase in crime, we see reason why the debate is indefinitely extended with much that may be said on both sides. But when workers among the poor, with equally good sight and hearing, reach from their experiences such diametrically opposite conclusions, we wonder how this can be. Some of the figures are equally confusing. For example, the Charity Organization Society shows that at present 12 per cent of its needy cases arise from alcoholism, as against 7.2 per cent in 1922 and 19.9 in 1916—which looks like proof that after helping for a short while, prohibition virtually does no good longer.

Were these conflicting witnesses prejudiced one way or the other from the outset and therefore found what they wished to find in most cases? Not necessarily, although this is not a feature of the matter to be overlooked. It may help to explain the confusion, while increasing the difficulty of clearing it up. If we call to mind that there was conflict of testimony among eye-witnesses in courts of law—and honest conflict at that—long before prohibition was heard of.

KINGS AND PRESIDENTS.

Speaking disrespectfully of King George has made H. G. Wells an object of practically universal criticism in Great Britain, even the leaders of the radical Labor Party denouncing his language as "mean and impertinent." Mr. Wells has done what by common consent is not done. If he had forgotten this, he has been forcibly reminded of it. Whether a King be personally popular or not, the attitude of the British public in this matter is the same. The sovereign is thought of not as a man but as a national symbol and as such is revered. He is to the British people even more than the stars and stripes is to Americans. Intemperance in the one case outrages national sentiment at least fully as much in the one case as in the other.

It may be objected that the English also have a flag to serve as a national symbol and that no man, be he President or King, should be above criticism. Why should a King be more immune than a President? The difference is that, though a King reigns for life, he never governs and is not responsible for the acts of his ministers, while a four-year President is a governing officer and usually makes it clear by his course that he is the guiding head of a single political party. The difference is marked. Nevertheless, barring the exceptions which tend to shock the public sense of fitness, we seem in recent years to be leaning somewhat toward the British attitude toward the King in our attitude toward even an elected four-year President. Barring exceptions, even leaders of the partisan opposition are noticeably more careful in the choice of words and tone when speaking critically of the President than when criticizing any other high public officer.

PAIN LOWER LEFT SIDE.

I spoke once before about a chap who was having considerable pain in the lower left part of the abdomen. It had been on the right side appendicitis would have been the first thought. An X-ray examination showed that he had an extra foot of large intestine in that region, and when gas accumulated there pain resulted.

A surgeon examining the X-ray with him suggested that he could remove the extra foot of intestine and give him relief.

However he figured out that he had had that extra foot all his life and yet it was only during the previous two years that he had felt any distress.

Why? Because he had always been an active outdoor man, an engineer, but during the past two years had become a desk or indoor man. He concluded that his best plan was to take more exercise, and await results. The extra foot of intestine could be removed if the exercise didn't give relief.

A drug firm advertising their product makes the statement: "There are no detours in the intestines." This is true enough, but when an extra loop one foot long is located, just where the gas pressure can be very great, then trouble can naturally be expected.

And if you are one of those folks with pain down on the right side which is present only at times, go into the matter of possible gas pressure there, not necessarily from an extra length of intestine, but from an intestine that has been distended so often that it has actually dilated or enlarged.

Too much starchy food is a frequent cause of this trouble. That is too many potatoes, or too much white bread eaten at the same time. Sometimes a little baking soda in the water in which the cabbage and other vegetables are being cooked will loosen this amount of distension in abdomen.

However the simple bending exercises, that is bending from side to side, and from front to back, will tighten up the abdominal muscles and prevent any sagging in this particular region, and every other part of the abdomen.

An abdominal belt for old folks is likewise of help.

Dutch Merchants Obtain Charter for New Netherland Company.

October 14, 1614.

The discoveries of Henry Hudson in his sturdy little vessel "Half Moon" bore abundant fruit immediately. Wealthy merchants of Amsterdam sent a ship from Texel to the River of Mountains, which for a time they called Mauritius, after Prince Maurice, the stadtholder. It was laden with cheap merchandise suitable for trade with the Indians for the furs of the beaver, otter and bear. Many private adventurers were soon engaged in the same trade, and its importance became manifest.

In 1611 Hendrick Christiaensen of Cleves sailed for the same destination and returned with two young Indians, the sons of a Manhattan chief.

In 1612 three Amsterdam merchants sent two ships, the "Fortune" and the "Tiger," to open up trade along the Hudson river. As Captain Adriaen Block was about to sail from Manhattan for Amsterdam with a cargo of bear skins, in December 1613, the "Tiger" was accidentally burned. During that winter he built some log huts, felled stately oaks and built a new vessel, which he called "Onrust," of eighteen tons, and with another cargo of furs the "Onrust" sailed for Holland. This is the first vessel ever constructed on Manhattan Island. These few huts were also the beginning of the great metropolis of the Western Hemisphere.

Two settlements had already been started in what is now the State of New York; one by Christiaensen on Castle or Patroon's Island, on the west bank of the Hudson river a mile south of the present Albany, called Fort Nassau; the second on Manhattan Island, covering the space between the Battery and Rector street on the west side of Broadway.

King James of England growled because the Dutch were monopolizing the fur trade upon his claimed domain.

The merchants of Amsterdam and Hoorn formed a company, and at the middle of August, 1614, sent a deputation to the Dutch court at the Hague to obtain a charter of special privileges. The chief representative of the merchants was Captain Adriaen Block, who spread before the twelve members of the States-General, a map showing their discoveries in the Western Hemisphere. He gave details of the adventures of the navigators and traders, their expenses and losses, and told of the risks they ran without some legal power to act in defense.

The prayer of the petitioners was heard, and a charter for The New Netherland Company was granted to the merchants, bearing date October 14, 1614, which instrument defined the region wherein they were permitted to operate as "between the fortieth and forty-fifth degree of north latitude" between the parallels of Cape May and Nova Scotia.

In this historic document the name of New Netherland was given to the domain lying "between Virginia and New France." By a curious coincidence, in the very same month and year, the name New England was first applied to the adjoining regions.

Notwithstanding this domain was included in the royal grant to the Plymouth Company of England, no settlement had been made by the English above Jamestown in Virginia, and no formal territorial jurisdiction had been claimed by them. The Dutch were not disturbed in either their settlements, their traffic with the Indians, or political jurisdiction for many years.

The Dutch West India Company was chartered June 21, 1623, and with such powers and privileges as it conferred the active settlement of New Netherland was begun.

The English claimed the domain, and the Dutch hastened to acquire eminent domain, according to the policy of England, by planting permanent settlements there. The first pocket, the "New Netherland," commanded by Captain Cornelius Jacobson May, which plied her ocean trade for thirty years, brought over in May, 1624, thirty families, eighteen of whom established a settlement at Fort Orange near Albany, under Adriaen Joris.

Two years later two ships loaded with emigrants, agricultural implements and domestic animals arrived, and with them came Peter Minuit, who following year purchased the island of Manhattan for about twenty-four dollars.

To induce private capitalists to engage in the settlement of the country the company gave authority to every person who should send over a colony of fifty souls, the title of "patroon" and the privilege of selecting tracts of land, except on Manhattan Island, eight miles in length along the river and as far inland as he pleased. Patroons were looked upon as feudal princes.

New Netherland remained in possession of the Dutch until the English took possession September 8, 1644, who lost it to the Dutch, August 9, 1673. The Dutch possession was of short duration for the Treaty of the Hague, signed February 9, 1674, gave their possessions in America to the English, and Sir Edmund Andros became the governor of the new regime in New York, November 16, 1674.

DOLLAR CALLS FOR CARGOES.

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 14. (Special.)—All industry, according to Captain Robert Dollar, founder and president of the Dollar Steamship Line, is based on the law of supply and demand and at present there are more ships than there is cargo available to fill them. No wonder both shippers and shipbuilders are still gloomy. Dollar has just returned from another trip around the world. He has especially noted the advance of Germany as a shipping nation.

What we need here in the United States is more exports. Some people may think the topic overdone. Such people fail to grasp the vital necessity of exports to this country if it is to continue to have longer periods of prosperity than depression. From April to August of this year, for instance, our exports each of those months hovered anywhere from 338 to 358 millions of dollars. That is not one-half what it ought to have been.

There are many ways to treat a cold in the head, but only one DIRECT way, and that is with vapors that can be inhaled.

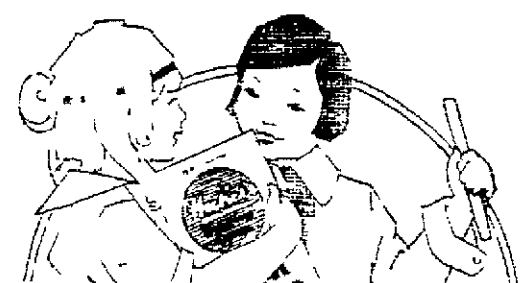

The easiest and most satisfying way to get those vapors is to sniff a little Vicks VapoRub well up the nose, or sniff a little in a spoon or tin cup and inhale.

The medicinal vapors reach immediately into every corner of the air passages, soothing and healing with every breath.

For other forms of cold troubles just rub Vicks over the throat and chest at bedtime. It is then the body heat which soothes these vapors.

LEOPARD'S COMPLIMENT

"I have just received a compliment," said the leopard.
"Indeed," said some of the other animals in the zoo, "and what was the compliment?"
"What is a compliment?" some of the others asked, for they did not know what the word meant.
"A compliment," said the leopard proudly and haughtily, "is a sentence or speech of praise."
"If any one compliments you, it means that that person is saying, or has said, fine, praising, complimentary, pleasant, flattering things about you."
"A compliment is always nice, because it is always made up of praise," "Oh," said the animals in their different languages.
"Now," said the ones who had known what the word meant but wanted to hear about the compliment, "now," they repeated, "tell us the compliment."
"I will tell it to you gladly," said the leopard, as he paced up and down his yard.
"We're glad that you're glad to tell it," said the other animals.
"Pray begin,"
"The keeper," said the leopard, "was speaking to a person a few moments ago."
"You all know what a person is, I imagine!"
"A creature with two legs and two arms and who talks a lot of funny words, and who laughs in a funny way."
"Yes, we all know what a person is, for the keeper is a person, too," said the others.
"Well," continued the leopard, "the keeper was telling this person something about me and something about all animals.

"Then He Looked at Me."

"And what do you suppose he said?"
"That we all had good appetites!" suggested one animal.
"That we all slept well!" asked a second.
"No," said the leopard, "the keeper said that almost any animal could be made friendly, and then he looked at me."
"That is," the keeper added, "almost any animal but the leopard."
"He is the one animal you certainly can't have as a friend or a playmate or a pet!"
"Now wasn't that a fine compliment?"
"It makes me so superior and fine not to stoop to be friends with the keeper."
"In fact it is so nice to have them all realize that the leopard is not one of your little lap dogs, nor even a friendly big old pet."
"Well," said the other animals, "it all depends on your idea of a compliment, that's all."
"Of course," the leopard agreed, "creatures feel differently about compliments."
"What is praise to one may not be praise to another."
"But I thought that was a great compliment, and I was mighty pleased."
"Of course as I am a big leopard I wouldn't be just a little bit pleased."
"If I am going to be pleased at all I am going to be mightily pleased as befits my rank and station as you might say."
"Oh yes, that compliment was all right."
So the leopard began once more pacing up and down his yard and saying to himself:
"He will never have cause to make any other sort of a speech about me."
The keeper is right in what he says now and he will always have to say the same.
"I, the leopard, will see to that."

Marilyn Got the Candy
Two-year-old Marilyn accompanied her parents to the home of a friend for dinner. Following the dinner the host passed a dish of candy around, and then set it down. The entire group of adults was so interested in conversation that they completely forgot little Marilyn, who was sitting quietly by, watching the candy dish.
Finally Marilyn stood up to her feet. "Mr. Smith, don't you want some more candy?"
Her parents were shocked, but Marilyn got the candy.

Little Sister Knows
The new minister was around getting acquainted. He was speaking to the small daughter of the house.
"Ten years ago, when you were the child? And who comes after her?"
"Oh, there's a different fellow almost every night."

Thumb Print Receipts
A Haverhill (N.H.) store uses the thumbprint system for receiving bills. When a bill is offered for payment the mechanic, who almost always has grubby hands, merely stamps his thumbprint on the bill.
The garage keeps finger-print records of all employees.

GAS BUGGIES or HEM AND AMY—Bad News.

WHEN THE POLICE RELEASED HIM AND RETURNED HIS CAR, THEY EXPLAINED THAT THE FUNNY NOISE IN HIS ENGINE WAS MERELY A RHEUMATIC CONDITION CAUSED BY LACK OF EXERCISE, WHICH WOULD WEAR OFF ON THE WAY HOME.
BUT IT GOT SO BAD HE TURNED INTO THE NEAREST GARAGE FOR A CONSULTATION.

YOU SAY YOU'RE A STRANGER IN TOWN? HMM! YOUR CAR SOUNDS LIKE IT'S IN BAD SHAPE. NEEDS AN OVERHAULING. THAT TAKES TIME. MY BROTHER-IN-LAW RUNS A NICE HOTEL HERE, THE PORTER HOUSE...

WE'RE STOPPING AT THE PALACE, THANK YOU. JUST HOW BAD IS IT? CAN'T YOU FIX IT UP TEMPORARILY?

WHAT DID YOU DO TO MY BUG BEFORE YOU WORKED ON IT, I COULD TAKE THE HILLS ON HIGH. NOW I HAVE TO BACK UP.

WELL, I'LL LOOK INTO IT AND SEE. IF IT APPEARS TO BE MUCH OF A JOB, I WON'T TACKLE IT. YOU CAN LET IT WAIT TILL YOU GET HOME. THE CARBON IS PRETTY BAD.

CAN'T HE TELL WITHOUT TAKING IT ALL APART? I'D HATE TO HAVE HIM FOR A DOCTOR!

HERE'S YOUR TROUBLE. IT AMT SO BAD, AFTER ALL, THE OIL PUMP GEAR SHEARED OFF. THAT BURNED OUT YOUR BEARINGS. THEN THE LOOSE RODS WHIPPED THE CRANKSHAFT OUT OF LINE AND THAT WARPED THE PISTON RINGS. SHALL I GO AHEAD AND FIX IT OR NOT?

INDIAN RULER TO VISIT US AGAIN

Maharajah of Rajppla Supreme Paramount of India's Smallest State.

Washington.—The prospective visit to this country of the Maharajah of Rajppla, who recently arrived in London, accompanied by a royal white elephant, recalls his sojourn in New York and Washington during the summer of 1922 when he was received at the White House by the late President Harding.

A recent bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society, says:

"Of approximately 600 native states in India, Rajppla is among the smallest, somewhat resembling, in importance, a large county in one of our eastern states."

Maharajah a Real Politician.

"Rajppla is about 200 miles north of the city of Bombay, in the north-western part of India. The state is slightly larger than Rhode Island and has about two-thirds the population of Providence. The Maharajah is king and boasts family supremacy since 1470. He is entitled to be addressed 'his highness' and to a salute of 11 guns when approaching any personages of the British empire. Except for a British agent who resides in these Indian states, the Maharajah has unrestricted power over his subjects. His power is rarely questioned except when a British subject is involved. Through tribute to neighboring states, his domain is protected and protective forces within the borders of Rajppla are apparently unnecessary, considering the size of its 'army,' which consists of 111 men."

"Two native tribes—the Bhils (howsen) and the Kolis—make up the greater portion of the population of Rajppla. The Bhils were once in power in India. Under the rule of the Moguls the Bhils were submissive and occupied the lowlands, but other tribes treated them so cruelly that they rebelled and fled to the hills from which few of them have returned. They used the bow to defend the mountain fastnesses and repel invaders. In 1618 the British tried to subdue them without success. In 1825, through the use of milder methods, a British agency was established in the state. Mark Royalty With Blood."

"In many of the central Indian states the princes, on succession, have their foreheads marked with blood from the thumb, or toe of a Bhil. They believe this is a mark of Bhil allegiance, but it is more probably a relic of days when the tribe was in power in India."

"They have binding oaths. The most sacred is that sworn by a dog, the Bhil praying that the curse of a dog may fall upon him if he breaks his word."

"For centuries Haxman, the monkey god, has been the chief divinity of these people. Offerings are also made to the much feared goddess of smallpox and stone worship is still found among them."

"Little more than one-third of Rajppla is cultivated. Cotton is the principal crop, while rice and indigo are also largely grown. Kodra, a grain grown on the hillside is one of the chief foods, particularly of the Bhils. Unlucky several times before, however, it is slightly poisonous, causing dizziness and faintness."

"In the southern portion of the state are thick forests. Bamboo matting, lacquer and graminoids, are also produced."

Dining of Zayder Zee

to Leave Towns Inland

Volendam, Holland.—Holland is draining the Zayder Zee in order to make more grazing land for the cattle which supply the world with Dutch cheese.

When the feat is accomplished this town, long one of the show spots of the Netherlands, will be a herring town without a harbor. The brown-sailed fishing fleet will be left high and dry and the pink-checked Dutch girls who parade the dykes on Sundays when the fleet is in port will no longer have any reason for parading.

Other towns of the Zayder Zee will share Volendam's fate. The villages which have always been connected with the sea must turn to agriculture or become extinct. Tourists who go to Zayder Zee towns to see the colorful costumes and hearty fishermen must go elsewhere when the bed of the Zayder Zee has been drained to the fertile fields behind the dikes.

Town Jail, Long Empty,

Hudson Farmers' Cotton

Hudsonville, Texas.—Laws county jail is to be used for storing cotton during the rush season. The jail today was without a prisoner and the doors were wide open.

A few months ago the sheriff used the building for cotton storage when he ran out of prisons. The county has 10,000 population and several flourishing towns, but law violators are scarce.

I find it safer to wash clothes—this easy way

I USED to have to rub and scrub cuffs, collars, hems, etc., to get them clean and white. No wonder they became frayed and threadbare so quickly. But no more hard rubbing for me now. I just soak my week's wash in Rinso suds—then rinse—and my washing is done—safely. Clothes get whiter and brighter than ever before. No washboard rubbing—even the most soiled spots become snowy with a rub or two between the fingers. Rinso makes the water wonderfully soft and sudsy. It saves my hands, too. They never get red and worn now. Ask your grocer for

POPULAR FOOD

Now is the time for all good housekeepers to serve the "old mushroom." It will be found in woods and pastures and when served with cream on toast makes a dish of rare flavor. Broiled mushrooms are delicious. Place the caps on a buttered broiler and cook well on the top, turn and cook on the other side; in each cap place a lump of butter and serve on toast, or as a garnish for broiled steak.

Deviled Mushrooms.—Mix a teaspoonful of mustard, a dash of cayenne, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and half a teaspoonful of paprika, cover broiled mushrooms with this mixture and serve on hot buttered toast.

Grape Mold.—Take four tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin, soften with two tablespoonfuls of cold water, then add the juice and grated rind of a lemon, two and one-half cupfuls of grape juice and one-half cupful of sugar. Stir until well dissolved and the gelatin has begun to thicken, then add one-half pound of grapes seeded and skins removed. Pour into a wet mold and set away on ice to harden.

Date, Nut and Pineapple Salad.—Chop a cupful of dates and three good-sized apples, add a cupful of chopped celery and a cupful of broken nut meats, one-half pound of seeded and skinned grapes. Mix all together and heap on a slice of pineapple which has been marinated in French dressing. Serve with mayonnaise dressing. Marshmallows may be used in place of nuts if cut fine.

Peach d'Armour.—Fill tall glasses with peach ice cream and sufficient raspberry juice to run down through the glasses and color the cream. On top place a spoonful of plain vanilla ice cream and garnish with a fresh raspberry or two.

When stirring food in a small dish on the stove steady it by using a clothespin.

On Fashions

JUMPER AND SWEATER TYPES CONTINUE TO INTRIGUE, AND CONTRASTING MATERIAL AND EFFECTIVE COLOR COMBINATION ARE A CURRENT FEATURE.

Perhaps it is possible to recall the bygone days when a shirt-waist was considered an indispensable unit of one's wardrobe. It was the American uniform. All over Europe, women were labeled "American" because of the universal acceptance of this type of costume. In those "raffish nineties," the shirt-waist, primly tucked under a tightly-strapped belt, was considered very neat, and regarded as in the best possible taste for most occasions.

The shirt-waist has undergone a most amazing metamorphosis; it has become in the course of its evolution the jumper or overblouse. In this decidedly more flattering form it appeals to present-day standards, which are measured by a ram-rod and governed, not by an admiration for curves, but by an appreciation of straight lines.

Two Successful Fashion Features of the Paris Openings—the Contrasting Skirt and Bodice, and the Combination of Black with White—Are Embodied in "Reine Legere," a Paton Evening Gown of Black and White Lustrous Pique Velvet. Bands of Brilliant Givré a Deep V Suggestion to the U-Neckline, and Form the Circle, Finished with an Ornament in Front to Accent the Front Fullness.

Straight lines and angles are the modern conception of form, although it must be admitted that a few of the newer draped gowns are form revealing; in fact, show a distinct tendency to more feminine allure. In spite of this, the type is the exception, not the rule, and women by and large prefer the straight up and down silhouette, especially for sports and general utility.

There are jumper evening dresses, but these are in the minority, the smartest evening things being made in one piece, not two pieces. Paris has sent us several dashing examples of evening gowns, and day gowns too, for that matter—that are of one color or fabric above and one below the hip-line. Jenny has done a daring dress that is white crepe satin above and black below, not the first success she has achieved with the always striking maple combination. ### Orange Flowers Much

Used for Perfumery

A sight often to be seen in northern Italy in the distilling season is a cartload of orange flowers and leaves, their strong aromatic fragrance leaving a long trail of scented air behind.

One way of obtaining the perfume is by distilling the blossoms with water, and the flowers of the bitter-sweet orange tree are chiefly used for this purpose. These essences are strongly and more deliciously than those of the sweet-scented "Golden Apple," as the Romans called it in the Middle Ages.

Like so many other things this delicately fragrant oil owes its fame to the whim of fashion. About the year 1800, when great ladies and their equines loved strong perfumes, it came into high favor under the patronage of the Princess of Wales, and was called after her, orange de Noire.

Owing to its strong scent, the essence of Noire is of great use when blended with scents, in the complicated perfume industry. These "essences" are prepared according to the prevailing fashion and taste.

The composition of these mixtures is a closely guarded secret, and their blending is a singular art, requiring long experience and special aptitude.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

Reception was good last night, but not as good as Tuesday night. The static accompanying the storm in the afternoon cleared up almost as soon as the storm passed.

WLWL gave an elaborate explanation of the state of affairs in the air that has followed the court decision that the government has practically no control over the assignment of wave lengths. The speaker clearly and convincingly presented the recent action of WLWL in selling a wave length that interferes with WGY and WTAM, stations established and using the wave lengths they now use years before WLWL was dreamed of. The WLWL speaker should reflect on the fact that "You're another" even though indisputably true, is not a good defense.

Does "Yellow Mask" Veil Your Teeth?

YOU look at your teeth. Yellow! Brown! And how do you feel you cannot lose that yellowish-brown? Why? In your saliva is a "tooth cancer" known as Calculus. It clings to your teeth, then hardens into a glassy mask. Calculus dissolves cannot remove it—unless they contain Lavoit's tooth powder. Through hard and soft teeth, it is also an absorbent, it draws out the oil, saliva and food from the teeth, leaving them clean. Lavoit's is the only tooth powder.

Your dentist knows what will remove this yellow mask—and he uses it. That is a common known as "Lavoit's Tooth Powder."

Now dental science has extended its knowledge that wonderful substance in a pleasant, easy way for the day, night and, yes, on the go. Get it of any drug, food or grocery store. Lavoit's is with glowing testimonials.

MIN OF ARGUMENTS FOUND IN CAUCASUS

American Woman Visits Lost Nation in Russia

Washington, Maine.—That the judges of the Russian Caucasus like a "lost nation" which claims descent from Noah, whose chain armor like the ancient and still performs sacrifices and worship to him, is the strange tale brought back to America by Mrs. East Rankin, who has just returned from two years as a Peace Boat relief worker in Armenia. Mrs. Rankin is the first American woman and the first American to venture into this heart of darkness and hidden land.

Mrs. Rankin, a native of Waterville, is back in her old home on her honeymoon. It was on Mrs. Rankin's journey that she spent five years in Armenia, after two years of study with Madame Curie in Paris. On her arrival in New York she married East Rankin, another returned Peace Boat relief worker. Her family were pioneers in Maine, coming here in 1668.

Mrs. Rankin's story of her visit to the "lost nation" of the Caucasus, as told to an interviewer here, is as follows:

"I was stationed at Alexandropol, in Russian Armenia, where 15,000 refugee orphans are being educated by the Peace Boat relief. I found that a group of these children were of Armenian race, and it became necessary for somebody to visit their mysterious mountain homeland in an effort to trace their relatives and if possible to repatriate the children in homes among their own people.

"Perhaps it was a foolhardy and venturesome trip for a woman, but I still feel the thrill of having accomplished it. I was told in Yerevan that I would not come back alive, but my mission was important.

"From the railroad I traveled three days on horseback to a village where I obtained local guides to accompany me through the mountains. For five days our horses climbed steadily, 12 hours a day. The trails often lay along the edge of terrific chasms, where a misstep meant death. Then we began to encounter scattered cottages and tiny hamlets. It was noticeable that my Georgian guides had a terror of the natives, for they would often assume to themselves in Russian, 'A dark people! A dark people!'

"The country is accessible through a labyrinth of mountain passes for only a few weeks each year. I was the first American woman who had ever visited it. This people may truly be called a lost nation, because it is akin to no other people on earth today. Even the flora of their land seems strange. The natives are white, with fair skin and blue eyes, and they talk a language unknown outside their boundaries.

"Their Religion Different.
Though they call themselves Christians, their religion is different from any other sect. They still perform sacrifices and there are remnants of ancient tree worship in their rites. Russian scholars say that these people are the descendants of Jesus and the Argonauts. One of their priestesses is an anchor which they claim came from Jesus' ship. It is preserved in a temple on the slopes of that great mountain upon which Prometheus is said to have been bound.

"During our trip we were compelled to seek nightly refuge in the houses of the people. They live in wooden huts of two stories, the lower floor sheltering their animals, while the upper floor is a single huge room where the whole family lives and sleeps. Their food consists mainly of hatch-pot, an odd mixture of corn, meat and goat's milk cheese.

"My mission among the Saventians was entirely successful. After a few days, they were no longer suspicious of me, and within a week they were quite friendly. They were tremendously impressed to find that Americans were caring for a group of refugee children belonging to their tribe, and they promised to send their head men to our orphanage headquarters to select the first unit of children for repatriation. It is quite likely that the American work for these children will result in breaking down the isolation of this people and bringing them back again into a world civilization."

Farmer Builds Home in Indian Graveyard

Nashville, Tenn.—Jonathan Dennis, farmer, who lives five miles from the center of Nashville, has discovered that he built his home in the midst of an Indian graveyard, with human skeletons surrounding his house.

While digging in his front lawn to plant some flowers, Dennis penetrated an Indian grave. The burial site covered about two acres and in an Indian mound. John Troward Moore, state historian and archaeologist, who investigated the find, will seek the aid of the Smithsonian Institution in mapping the mound for further discoveries.

Several of the graves were investigated. One of the skeletons measured six feet, nine and a half inches. In the same grave was another skeleton, supposed to be the wife of the warrior, and between the two, the bones of a child.

Bleaching and Weather

Bleaching in sunlight is generally explained as being due to oxidation, which is hastened by the chemical rays. The bureau of standards has not noticed that bleaching is more rapid in cold weather. If so, it may be due to the greater clearness of the air, so that fewer rays of short-wave length are reflected away from the earth by dust particles.

"Maqua" Night
At Y. W. Supper

The Business Girls' Club members were out in full force Wednesday evening to enjoy the supper at the Y. W. and they were all in a jolly frame of mind. Evidently there was something special doing, judging by the table decorations and real "spiffy" place cards of birch bark with a tiny evergreen tree sketched thereon. The head table had for its centerpiece a miniature camp with tiny balsam trees, tents, camp fire, with general table decorations of autumn leaves. There was also something quite mysterious about the screens set up in front of the small stage.

Nobody should ever have indignation after a Y. W. supper for three reasons: the food is so good, the girls are so jolly, the songs are so enlivening.

After the supper Miss Lichty announced the first meeting of the Schubert Choral Club for Friday evening, beginning at 7 o'clock. Before the rehearsal, with Miss Lon Kamp conductor, those wishing to join may have their voices tried. Tonight there is to be a full rehearsal of "Tell it to Venus," the play to be put on for the membership rally. Miss Lichty also told the girls that the Thursday luncheons would be served, beginning next week.

Miss Yerva also had a few announcements to make relative to meetings following the supper, including a meeting of the "Setting-up and Setting-down Twines," the Bathing Babies, "Pajama Girls—the 8 hours of sleep," "The Water glass brigade."

The club president, Miss Jean Goodsell, in behalf of the girls present, congratulated Miss Catherine Salzman on her new business enterprise, for Miss Salzman and Miss Lyons are about to open the "Kay-May Corset" Shop on Fair street.

Miss Goodsell told of the Business Girls' Club making it possible for five girls—Alice McLaughlin, (Mickey), Harriet Mianer, Catherine Salzman, Ethel Salzman and Alma Tyler—and the board of directors making it possible for her as delegation leader to go to Camp Maqua this summer. They had a wonderful time but decided that the best way to really put over the benefits of their good time to their own club would be the things they were planning to do in the club this year. However, so that the girls present might have a little idea of the pleasure of the camp, Alma Tyler was given the privilege of telling a little about it all. What with sense and nonsense it is a safe bet that after she finished with her happily told story every other girl in the room wished she had gone and hoped to go some time herself. There were over 300 Y. W. girls at Camp Maqua and if they were all as peppy and interested as the Kingston girls, it must have been an inspiring gathering.

Then came the surprise. The screens were moved from in front of the stage and there under evergreen boughs, with a tiny, glowing camp fire in front of them, the Camp Maqua girls in their camp uniform of white knickers and shirts and orange colored jackets bound in black and carrying the letter "K" in black were gathered about "Mickey" with her guitar, and she led them in a spirited and inspiring manner in singing many of the Camp Maqua songs, songs that were funny, songs that were lovely, songs that were serious. Surely the Camp Maqua girls gave their companions a delightful hour and considerable inspiration.

Persian Ex-Consul Killed in Fall

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—The death of H. H. Topakyan, formerly Persian consul-general here, from a fall from the 17th story window of the Yale Club, was accidental, police believe. Mr. Topakyan's health and his business were good, and nothing has been found to indicate that he contemplated suicide.

A small hand satchel and a brief case, which fell also, lead to the belief that in trying to recover these articles from the window ledge, Mr. Topakyan lost his balance and plunged to the street late yesterday.

The widow is in a hallway in the apartment of F. Budley Kohler, Mr. Topakyan's attorney. The police say that all the other windows in the apartment were closed. Mr. Topakyan was waiting Mr. Kohler, who arrived at the street door a few minutes later and identified the body.

Women Editors "Kill" Crime News

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 14 (AP).—With nearly all crime news eliminated and "streamers" missing, the annual history club edition of the Sioux Falls Press Wednesday was declared a success by the women who published the paper and sold it on the streets.

It was the third time in three years that the members of the Sioux Falls History Club had full charge of the paper, a privilege granted by the press so the women may put their ideas into the making of a newspaper.

Women reporters "covered" all of the regular beats. Women also had charge of the advertising and circulation departments.

The account of the Jack Sharkey-Harry Wills fight was put on page one. Mrs. R. D. Springer, managing editor for the day, said the victory of Sharkey "was bigger news than a win for Wills would have been."

Most crime news found the waste basket, with the exception of the Chicago gangland feud, which was "buried" on an inside sheet. Mrs. Springer said the story was a "disgrace" to any city.

Beavers Cut Off Water Supply of Dakota Town

Spearfish, S. D.—A colony of beavers and the local water department are engaged in a game of hide and go seek with the city water supply at stake. The beavers were discovered recently by a water department official as the mysterious cause of a shortage of water in the city mains. The animals had built a dam across a pond at the spring in the Spearfish canyon, from which the city obtains its water supply, and diverted the water to a new channel. Water department employees removed the construction work, but each night the animals go about their task of repairing the damage. City officials plan to appeal to the state game department to evict the persistent animals.

Tames Snake for Fun

Midvale, N. J.—Taming rattlesnakes is the recreation this summer of Arthur Ricker, a resident of this borough. He claims the amateur championship among snake tamers.

Gang Victim

W. W. O'Brien, Chicago attorney, was shot and seriously wounded by gangsters operating a machine gun.

Toad Market for Snakes

The town of Harper, in Kansas, has a rather unusual industry in a local toad market. Hundreds of the animals are bought and sold daily and delivered at 2 cents apiece. The demand is created by the Len Laird snake farm, near Harper, where thousands of the reptiles are handled annually, some shipments going as far as France. Laird keeps the reptiles in a silo as a side line, as he is a prosperous wheat and stock farmer as well.

Spider's Harbor

A species of spider inhabiting the shores of the Pacific may be found at low tide crawling around on the rock and coral reefs, but when the tide rises you search for them in vain. Each spider, when the tide starts to come in, takes refuge in a crevice and spins over her retreat a sheet of silk impervious to water.

27,000 Veterans Still in Hospitals

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (AP).—About 27,000 veterans of the World War, 8,000 of whom are suffering from tuberculosis, are still in hospitals and sanitariums. Brig-General John V. Clinchin, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, told the American Legion today.

In an address bringing the greetings of his organization to the Legion, General Clinchin expressed his gratitude and appreciation for the Legion's aid in the undertakings of the disabled veterans.

"The American Legion has co-operated with us at all times," he said. "And demonstrated that the lapse of time has not dulled its interest in the disabled men. Its membership has not forgotten the comrades in distress, sickness or infirmity."

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press.)

New York—Mrs. Vincent Astor presumably has the best claim to be leader of the four hundred, who number considerably more than that. Mayor Walker designated her as the city's special envoy to attend Queen Marie. This when society folks were pulling various strings for the honor of entertaining royalty.

Los Angeles—It seems to run in the family. Robert M. Goodwin, who is represented as a nephew of the famous Nat, has just married for the eighth time. The bride is Elizabeth Marks, who is on the stage with him.

New York—To help pay for $5,000 a week dancing teams, jazz orchestras and the like, night clubs in the Roaring Forties, now beginning their big harvest season, are charging $1 for a drink of milk. If a thirsty patron does not care for milk, other things cost more.

Kansas City, Kan.—Books on evolution are torn mysteriously in the public library and quotations from the Bible written in.

Stockholm—There are some suggestions now that Princess Astrid and Prince Leopold will have a triple wedding next month—a civil ceremony here, then Protestant and Catholic services in Brussels. These reports follow statement that the Princess intended to change her religion.

Washington—Uncle Sam is getting a bit parsimonious General Andrews thinks, when he objects to buying mahogany furniture because it costs $7 more. The general has appealed to Budget Director Lord in order to get what he regards as proper equipment for his prohibition office.

Dance Friday at K. of C.

On Friday evening, at the Knights of Columbus Home an informal dance will be held under the direction of the local council. The Imperial Orchestra will supply the music. Refreshments will be served and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Pawning Manuscripts

In ancient times manuscripts were important articles from a commercial point of view. Lurers considered them among their most precious objects for pawn. A student of Pavla, who was in need of funds, raised money by leaving in pawn a manuscript of a body of laws and a grammar, who was ruined by fire rebuilt his house by means of two small volumes of Cicero and a pawnbroker. —Market for Exchange.

Auto Perils Mount

Washington—The perils of motoring are mounting. Official statistics are that 3,274 persons already have been killed this year in 66 cities. Norfolk, Va., is the safest city and Camden, N. J., the most dangerous, judging by averages.

Foolproof Planes

Philadelphia—Airplanes are going to be foolproof; also so cheap that anybody who can afford an auto can now have one; also the air traffic will be so heavy that there will be airplane police. A few predictions made at a convention of automotive engineers.

The Right Man In The Right Place

Attorney General Albert Ottinger, the Republican candidate for re-election to the office that he has filled with such great credit to the State of New York, owes his rise to no political favor but to a record of accomplishment and solid achievement. Born in New York City, he received his early education in the public schools and later attended the New York University Law School, being admitted to the bar in 1909. He immediately embarked upon his legal activities and was selected by his party to run for State Senator and was elected to that body in 1911.

Mr. Ottinger's record in the State Senate, where he sponsored a vast amount of constructive and needed measures such as health laws and others including the first New York-New Jersey Vehicular Tunnel legislation won him a position of prominence in the State's highest legislative body and with the election of President Harding he was appointed Assistant United States Attorney General. In this position Mr. Ottinger again distinguished himself and because of his record he was nominated for Attorney General in 1924 and piled up one of the largest votes of any candidate on the State ticket.

As Attorney General of the State of New York Mr. Ottinger has again demonstrated that he is the Right Man in the Right Place.

During his term of office Mr. Ottinger has investigated over 3,900 complaints against brokerage houses and through his strict enforcement of the Martin Anti-Stock Fraud Act he has made the Empire State safe for investors. How safe it is, may be judged when it is known that he has kept from the New York market over $200,000,000 in worthless stocks and bonds and has driven the bucket shops out of the state.

Mr. Ottinger is now engaged in an extensive investigation of the real estate field, and from the information already disclosed this bids fair to surpass in magnitude the work he has done in prosecuting fraudulent brokerage houses.

When he assumed his duties as Attorney General Mr. Ottinger found that his predecessor had left the courts congested with cases involving the Workmen's Compensation Act. Within two months Mr. Ottinger had cleared the court calendars of all such litigation and has kept all matters involving this act up-to-date and suggested amendments to the existing law.

Attorney General Albert Ottinger which will make it even more workable and of greater benefit to both the employer and the working man.

Mr. Ottinger investigated and broke up the Live Poultry Trust, the smoked Fish Trust, the Ice Trust and the Cream and Cheese Trust and is now investigating the coal industry.

As a member of the New York State Water Power Commission, Mr. Ottinger has led the State's battle to develop its water power. As a member of the State Land Board, he has been instrumental in bringing about rapid adjustments in all cases where private property has been condemned for State Park purposes.

With Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp, Mr. Ottinger has conducted a vigorous legal battle to force Tammany Hall to accept voting machines in New York City as is provided by law.

Throughout his entire career Attorney General Albert Ottinger has demonstrated that he is an active and fearless public servant. He was originally elected on his record and he is a candidate for a second term on his record.

Attorney General Albert Ottinger is the Right Man in the Right Place—Keep him there.

Unending lines of adventurers rolling westward—
Untold numbers of unsung heroes in the fight for gold—
Unbending hearts in a land as cold as steel, where primitive passions and physical power ruled with a mailed fist—where might was right and weaklings dropped by the roadside—
Into this maelstrom of gold-maddened men and frenzied women rode a slip of a girl—and 3 BAD MEN!
Terrors of the West, wreckers of havoc, border killers who settled disputes with the shooting iron, they formed a protecting trio for this dainty bit of femininity—

Farm and Home Bureau Plays

Each fall the Farm and Home Bureau community stage a home play in competition with each other. A committee of judges attend each meeting, keeping accurate records of the performance and making luminous notes on the action, interpretation, stage setting and other important points. After each play has been seen by the judging committee an award of honor is given to the community having made the best play at the annual Farm and Home Bureau banquet where a silver loving cup is awarded them.

The first of the series of plays will be given at the Asbury Grange Hall Tuesday evening, October 19, at 8 o'clock, by the Asbury Farm and Home Bureau. The name of the play to be staged is "Kismet on the Radio." The cast has held several rehearsals and now have things down to perfection. They cordially invite everyone to attend who is a lover of home talent productions.

The second meeting for the judges to attend is scheduled for Wednesday evening, October 20, at the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall in Modena. The Modena-Plattekill Farm and Home Bureau members have worked together an excellent cast and will stage the favorite play "Neighbors." The new community hall recently dedicated will make an excellent place to hold the play as it is equipped with a fine stage, scenery, lights and other essentials. Many will come from surrounding communities to see the new hall and all are interested in seeing Modena-Plattekill "Broadway Stars" in "Neighbors."

During this same week plays will be given at Shawangunk on Thursday evening and at New Paltz on Friday. Capacity crowds are expected at each meeting.

Two Weeks' Work For Grand Jury

The grand jury in attendance at the October term of the Supreme court now in session will have at least two week's business. District Attorney Traver expects to have all matters presented before the grand jury by the last of next week in order that an early report may be made to the court.

Swimmer Wears Only Grease

time than that made by Trudy Ederle, the first woman to swim the channel.

She Wanted To Try Also.

"I wanted to try the channel swim," Lotty confessed, "but could not get the financial backing and so had to give it up."

"Who is backing the present trip?" she was asked.

"Anne Nichols, the author and producer of Able's Irish Rose," she replied. She continued that after completing the Manhattan island swim she had been tendered a reception at the theatre where she had met Miss Nichols who had agreed to finance the attempt to swim the Hudson river.

What Dad Says of Daughter.

Just then her father, who had been busy writing a letter, interrupted to say: "Lotty, I am writing Ma that her daughter is not human; she is made of steel with a heart of oak," and he patted her on the shoulder and went out to mail the letter to Ma.

Others in the Party.

There are also several other life guards in the party including Eddie Nugent and Eddie McInerney.

The captain of the Idle Hour, a large motor cruiser, is Captain James Randall and the pilot is Captain Matty Grant, a well known river man.

Lotty's Trainer is Selzas.

Harry Selzas, Lotty's trainer, is well known in Kingston for he was umpire for the Colonials for four years when the baseball club was handled by Judge Harry E. Schirick and Artie Rice was a member of the team. Harry said that Kingston appears just the same as ever and he was glad of the opportunity of visiting here again, even if it was for just over night.

Is Just 28 Years Old.

Lotty stands five feet two inches in her bare feet and tips the scale at 145 pounds. She is a blonde with bobbed curly hair on which she wears a white cap while swimming. In the cap is a letter from Governor Smith to Mayor Walker of New York, which Lotty expects to hand to the mayor at the New York city hall when she completes the swim.

In Water Nearly Four Hours.

Wednesday's swim was the longest that she had remained in the water, for she plunged into the river four miles above Saugerties at 8:30 o'clock that morning and did not leave the water until 12:20 that afternoon.

She said she uses the trudgeon crawl stroke as it takes less energy in propelling her through the water.

Wednesday on the way down the river she faced a thirty-five mile wind which whipped the water into waves fully three feet in height, according to Trainer Selzas.

As she swims the life guards with the party accompany her in two row-boats, one rowing on each side of her, while the Idle Hour proceeds about a quarter of a mile ahead picking out the channel.

She said she had done night swimming ever since she plunged into the water at Albany, but the heavy fog Wednesday night prevented her from attempting it that night.

Wrote 3 1/2 Miles an Hour.

Lotty said she covers about two and a half miles an hour while in the water, and if she continues to make as good progress as she has been making she will complete the entire swim in less than sixty-three hours, actual time in the water. This, she said, would better the time made by Mille Gade Corson, who swam the river several years ago. Mrs. Corson is the second woman to successfully negotiate the English channel, the last year.

"Sure the Water is Cold."

"Is the water cold?" asked some one aboard the Idle Hour.

"Sure, it's cold," replied Lotty, with a smile, "but I think it is warmer than at Albany."

When the swimmer and her party left Rondout creek this morning to resume the trip down the river she was accompanied by newspaper reporters from the New York World and the New York Times. The Times man is the official timer of the swim and has been a member of the party since the trip started.

Passed Esopus Light At 1 P. M.

Mrs. Schoemmel swimming at the rate of two miles per hour had passed the Esopus light house at 1 o'clock this afternoon. As the Esopus light is 4 miles south of the Rondout creek light which she passed at 11 o'clock she was progressing at the rate stated.

What Are You Doing For Your Puny Child?

One Boy Gained 14 Pounds in 7 Weeks and Is Now Strong and Healthy

For weak, frail, under-developed children—and especially those that have rickets and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, Cod Liver Oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and will smother and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date chemists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

Children love them as they do candy, because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained 14 pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 40 cents at all druggists—but be sure and insist on McCoy's—the original and genuine.

Give them to the sickly, frail child for 30 days, and if they don't help—wonderfully, your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for them.

Predicts Nation
Of Octogenarians

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP).—Dr. Irving Fisher of Yale University believes that before the close of this century we shall be a nation of octogenarians and has offered to wager the American Health Association in session here, $10 to $1 that his prediction will come true.

Scientific knowledge of health needs, plus the re-discovery of simple biological living will be responsible for the life average increase, in his opinion.

Millions of deaths were caused when man was deprived of the ultra-violet rays of the sun by the invention of window glass. Professor Fisher told the association last night. This has been found out, however, and men are now seeking sunlight and invention of glass which lets the healthful rays in, he said. He believes every man has it within his power to rid himself of every germicidal disease, largely through exercise, sleep, fresh air and food.

Commandments That Are Worth Observing

Honor your parents by having a thorough physical examination every birthday; for an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure.

Honor your friends by taking a daily bath; for cleanliness is a part of godliness.

Honor your family by having your life insured; for life insurance guarantees the co-operation of the insurer in the prolongation of the life of the insured.

Honor your stomach by having your teeth examined by a dentist at regular intervals; for bad teeth are an abomination to the system.

Honor your digestion by being careful of your diet; for many a man digs his grave with his teeth.

Honor your lungs by breathing fresh air; for ventilation is a means of grace.

Honor your nerves by taking plenty of rest in sleep.

Honor your fellows by obeying the law; for it is a mark of good citizenship to obey a law whether one likes it or not.

Hard-Working Novelist

Undoubtedly the hardest-working woman author in history was Anna Marie Lucile Auer, the French novelist, better known by her pen name, George Sand. She was born in Paris June 8, 1804, and is credited with having one of the first writers to demand literary for women in all times. Through her novels, which were popular during her lifetime, and were translated even into Russian, they are now considered mid-century, and not much read, says the London Chronicle. She wrote daily from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m., and if she finished a novel a quarter of an hour before the appointed time had elapsed, she at once set to work upon another.

Calculated Remark

A carrier at the head of a table in an Irish inn, noticed the large number of green, remarked suddenly that she goes out before him might have been eaten a week ago.

Those who heard him ordered cuts from the joint, while he helped himself liberally to green. A stout, middle-aged man, remarked that he had undervalued him to say that the green was not good.

"Well, sir," he replied.

"But you said that it might have been eaten a week ago."

"Yes, and on it tonight, and it wasn't."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 14 (AP).—The stock market scored further progress on its recovery today as buying of standard railroad and industrial shares was carried forward on a large scale. The check to professional selling activities and indications that the liquidation of impaired margin accounts was about completed apparently influenced fresh public buying as well as short covering, with resultant gains of 2 to 5 points in many active shares.

Railroad issues made a strong showing under the leadership of the Van Sweringen stocks, which are expected to benefit by another revision of the Nickel Plate merger terms. Chesapeake and Ohio rallied more than five points and Nickel Plate was included in a list of 3 point gains along with Delaware and Hudson, and Norfolk and Western. Accumulation of other carriers was influenced by the latest report showing car loadings holding near the year's high mark.

Many of the stocks which had been depressed most severely in last week's selling movement rebounded three to four points. These included Coca Cola, Union Bag, Case Threshing Machine, Dupont and Louise Wiles Blauvelt.

Some irregularity resulted from continued unloading by pools which had been unable to enlist public support for their favorites. Electric Refrigeration, American Agricultural Chemicals, Jordan Motor and Manhattan Electric Supply sagged to the year's lowest levels.

Kills Wife With Hunting Knife

Crazed With Jealousy Elmiria Man Drives Blade of Hunting Knife Into the Heart of His Wife.
Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP)—George Earl Bromley, 29, drove the six inch blade of a hunting knife into the heart of his wife, Lydia May Bromley, 28, at 7 o'clock today as the culmination of a long series of domestic difficulties.
After committing the murder, Bromley climbed into his car, drove about the city for an hour and then went into a cafe where he surrendered to the police a half hour later.
Bromley first choked his wife when she refused to kiss him, he declared in a confession to the police.
When she went into the living room of their home and lay down on a couch, he took the knife from a chiffonier and drove it into her left breast. Death was probably instantaneous, according to Dr. Tracy Hamilton. Jealousy is ascribed as a motive. A possible attempt at suicide was frustrated when police removed a bottle of poison and a phial of poison tablets from Bromley's pocket. He was arraigned on a charge of first degree murder.

9,000 Alley Dwellers Violate Capital Laws

Washington.—Approximately 2,400 dwellings in the District of Columbia, housing 9,000 persons, are located in public alleys, in violation of the act of congress of September 25, 1914, prohibiting the occupancy of such buildings after July 1, 1918, according to the annual report of the board of condemnation of buildings submitted to the commissioners.
The report pointed out that two ejection cases of alley dwellers were brought in the Supreme court of the district during the year, seeking to restrain the commissioners from enforcing the provisions of the alley law. An injunction was issued in each case.
The report showed that twenty-one buildings were razed by the board's action during the year and the premises put in safe and sanitary condition. There were twenty-seven other buildings condemned for insanitary conditions, which still are standing because the board lacks money to remove them.
The estimated number of occupants in dilapidated and insanitary buildings totaled 2,640, according to the report. Seven hundred and thirty-eight occupants of such buildings were required to find other quarters through action by the board.

Butterflies Travel Far

The monarch butterfly of the northern United States and southern Canada, though common in north temperate latitudes, is unable to stand the winter north of the sub-tropical portions of the southern states. Though it does not establish the fact that the entire journey from Florida to the Arctic circle is made by individuals, the annual appearance of the insects proves that a considerable northward movement goes on each year. It may, of course, be the result of the successive efforts of several generations.

Significance in Colors

"The Latch String Is Out"

The first example to be found of the use of the phrase, the latch-string is out, dates from 1897. It was the creation of some journalist who wrote for the Pall Mall Gazette, London, January 8, page 6, column 2: "We have hung our latch-string out to you and yours." In 1893 the Advance, of Chicago, for March 16, page 200, wrote: "Our latch-string is out has become a classical expression of cordial hospitality."
